Kuster Reports Playhouse Plans

A wire from Edward Kuster in Los Angeles informs us that he was in Carmel last week conferring with a business and professional group that has formulated a plan for financing reconstruction of the Golden Bough Playhouse as a cooperative community enterprise. Mr. Kuster reports he realized some years ago that the playhouse had passed the stage of individual ownership and control. He announced that he will be glad to participate as a holder of minority interest.

The promotional committee (which Mr. Kuster did not name in his wire) will announce its program after the first of the year, he said. Plans are for a 600 seat theater "of great credit to the community" to be built before summer on the former playhouse site.

GOP Women's Conference Here

An early political event of the New Year will take place when the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women's Club will be host to the Northern Division of the California Council of Republican Women at a conference to be held at Asilomar, Jan. 4 and 5.

Mrs. Frances Ballard, president of the local club, has announced that Mrs. Harry B. Gantt, 1st vice president, is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Serving on Mrs. Gantt's committee are: Mrs. V. C. Osmont, of the assisting reception committee; Mrs. N. M. Leoni, in charge of information; Mrs. E. P. McMurry, tickets and decorations; Mrs. R. L. Avery, rooms; Mrs. E. P. Underwood, finance; and Mrs. Carl Nuetzel, transportation.

Serving with Mrs. Ballard on the committee to receive the Northern Division guests are Mrs. Harry B. Gantt, Mrs. Henry Raymond, Mrs. R. L. Avery, Mrs. Gunnar Norberg, Mrs. John S. Chitwood, all officers of the club; Mrs. J. E. Abemethy, Mrs. C. S. Ballagh, Mrs. Helen C. Cranston, Mrs. Ella Shaw Fisher, Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, Miss O. B. Hazeltine, Mrs. Grace Howden, Mrs. A. C. Hughes, Mrs. F. L. Knudsen, Mrs. N. M. Leoni, Mrs. Milton Marquard, Mrs. Ernest Morehouse, Mrs. Mrs. Durbin Sayers, Mrs. Ernest Schweninger, Mrs. Daisy Taylor, Mrs. E. H. Tickle, and Mrs. F. E. Vaughan.

The most important business of the two-day conference will be the election of new officers.

The SPECTRE

by Carl Anderson.

The lighting of Christmas decorations at Cartoonist Jimmy Hatlo's home (see cover) caused its yearly traffic jam Friday night. The decorations are beautiful and take time, money and ingenuity. A tip of the hat to Hatlo...

Seems like we could shake loose a few more of the same in this community and hold an outdoor Christmas decorations contest each year.

Christmas is a happy occasion for everyone but headline writers. With so many stories about the holiday breaking this time of the year, editors wrack their brains trying to find synonyms for Christmas: Yule, Yuletide, Noel, St. Nick's Day and Xmas (although several of these are unacceptable to certain people). The usual procedure is to spot headlines so that the same names don't appear on the same pages. Our headline writer asked me to write this in case he slips up.

Don't know the details, as it isn't settled yet, but am informed that the English film, Red Shoes, is coming to Carmel.

A stray pooch with no proper knowledge as to where to stray was picked up by a peninsulite last week who had contacted the county pound and the SPCA pound. Seems as though the dog went into housekeeping in an old box located right at the Pacific Grove-Monterey County line. Both animal authorities claimed he was out of their jurisdiction, so our man went and got him himself. Anyone who wants a nice mongrel should phone this publication.

"Squeek of the Week" medal goes to Albert Poulton, of the Army Language School, who escaped injury when his convertible smashed head-on into an oncoming car last Friday night between Monterey and Carmel. His vehicle rolled completely over and was demolished, but he "walked away from it," as downed airmen say. Peninsulites who saw the accident or the condition of Mr. Poulton's car say it couldn't be so - but it is.

A while back I sounded off on parking meters and wrote something about how they give me the feeling that I'm being observed by a row of periscopes as I walk down the street. That still goes. However, Montereyans and Pacific Grovans (What do you call them, anyway?) may be comforted to learn that New York City may install parking meters. Only, theirs will cost a dime, which doesn't make them any prettier. Damned Periscopes!

Visitors from Africa dropped into the office the other day. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brett-Suman, of Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa, are looking about Carmel for Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jennings. Seems the Brett-Sumans dropped into Summit, N.J., where the Jennings used to live and found they had moved to Carmel. The Brett-Sumans are touring the U.S. and will go to San Francisco sometime this week. However, they expect to return to Carmel between Christmas and the New Year. Hear that, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings?

Frank Brewer's most spectacular birthday present on Tuesday was a cellophane wrapped bar stool which he was given by Harrison Godwin and Pine Inn staff. The stool is in the Pine Inn cocktail lounge and anyone who sits on it will be sitting on the initials FB for Frank Brewer.

TO BURLINGAME

Colonel and Mrs. Paul S. Winslow, of Pebble Beach, will spend the Christmas weekend with the Paul Fagans in Burlingame, as is their annual custom.

CARMEL GET-TOGETHER

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. P. Siemsen will join Mrs. Siemsen's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Perske in Carmel for Christmas.

FAMILY CHRISTMAS

Mrs. Inez Lorentzen and Mrs. J. R. Sturm will host a family Christmas dinner in their Monterey home. Among those who will attend the gathering are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tiedemann, Jack, Nancy and Susan Stalnaker, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gillette and Joyce Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. James H. O. Dow and Neal Dow, and Betty Lorentzen.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gillette and young son, Chester, will spend the holidays with his parents, the Chester Gillettes. Christmas Day they will join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Harkless for dinner. "Jimmy" attends Stanford University and the couple make their home in Palo Alto.

On Christmas

"Isn't it a shame that the spirit of Christmas does not last the year 'round?"

"Some people forget their religion as soon as Monday arrives."

How many times does one hear those statements, or variations thereof? Christmas is a day of understanding and love and generosity, or whatever it means to those who can cut through its commercialization. "Peace on Earth, good will to Men" is not a phrase to be bounded by the 24 hours that comprise December 25.

This has all been said before, but certain men are able to express themselves better than their fellows. One of these is Kahlil Gibran, whose writing becomes this week's editorial:

And he to whom worshipping is a window, to open but also to shut, has not yet visited the house of his soul whose windows are from dawn to dawn.

Your daily life is your temple and your religion.

Whenever you enter into it take with you your all.

Take the plough and the forge and the mallet and the lute,

The things you have fashioned in necessity or for delight.

For in revery you cannot rise above your achievements nor fall lower than your failures.

W.H.M.

As president of the Carmel Business Association I would like to thank all the shops and stores for so-operating in the matter of keeping open until 9 p.m. on Friday nights in the pre-Christmas selling. Many customers who could not shop during the day were very pleased to be able to do their shopping on the Friday nights.

The Carmel Business Association appreciates the fine job of attractive Christmas window displays in the stores and shops, and local residents, friends, customers and visitors have been pleased with the many attractive displays.

We also appreciate having the big tree decorated by the City Council and the P.G. & E. And we do admire the wonderful Christmas tree and decoration done by Jimmy Hatlo on Monte Verde at 6th.

The Carmel Business Association wishes everyone
A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS!

CAROLING BY USO IN CARMEL TONIGHT

The Monterey Peninsula USO will bring Christmas to Carmel tonight when two truck-loads of servicemen and junior hostesses will tour the area singing traditional Christmas carols.

Arrangements for Yuletide home hospitality for boys of the Army and Navy will be made by the USO until Dec. 23. Just call Monterey 4154 if you want to invite one or two boys to Christmas dinner.

Through the cooperation of Charles S. Olmsted, of Del Monte Properties Company, the USO has several big Christmas trees to make its clubhouse bright and cheerful. Open house is being held all week and the people of the Carmel area are invited to visit the USO.

Important on the holiday schedule of events to come are the annual formal Christmas Ball on Friday, the annual Christmas Eve Party on Saturday, and the Turkey Buffet Supper and Yuletide Pageant on Christmas night.

Among Carmel individuals and groups assisting the USO in its extensive program are Mrs. Gladys R. Johnston, Mrs. Carl Nuetzel, Mrs. Edward Cochrane, Mrs. Edward A. De Persis, Mrs. Orville Jones, Jr., Miss Lily E. Couey, Miss Skipper Ackroyd, Mrs. Margaret Bennett, Miss Ann Fareello, the Carmel Woman's Club, the AWVS, and the Carmel Mission Altar Society.

AMA-Legion Alliance Versus Compulsory Health Insurance Gillette Requests a Uniform Code for Handling of Milk

SPECIAL TO THE SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON—Physicians who attend the American Medical association meetings in Washington feel that they have compulsory health insurance in retreat.

At the same time, they are taking no chances on a comeback. That is the reason why they are raising a three-million-dollar campaign chest to continue their "educational" campaign against the proposal through 1950.

Developments which they look upon as decidedly in their favor include support from the American Legion; personal observations made by members of Congress in England on operation of the plan there, and the strong opposition in Congress to increases in government expenditures in the face of a large deficit.

The American Legion support is regarded by the doctors as a particularly good break. Legion National Commander George N. Craig has proposed formation of teams of physicians and legionnaires to fight compulsory insurance.

Many doctors believe that if this plan is carried out defeat of compulsory health insurance will be virtually certain.

George N. Craig

● MILK CODE ASKED—Senator Guy Gillette (D), Iowa, believes it is high time the Agriculture department recommends a uniform sanitary code for handlers of milk across the country.

Gillette says local sanitary codes are being used in some communities as trade barriers to keep milk from coming in to local markets from outside areas.

The senator, chairman of a Senate agriculture subcommittee probing milk prices, asked the Agriculture department why there have been no recommendations along this line. He was told that the department has "farmed" out this assignment to a private research company which started work on a national milk code more than half a year ago.

Agriculture representatives were told to find out what work, if any, has been done; what is involved in the assignment, and what formulation of the code will cost.

It was testified that the concern was given $5,000 to do the job, but this testimony later was changed to indicate that $5,000 is available. Still later representatives talked of $50,000.

● STEELMAN STOCK UP—Departure of Clark Clifford from the White House official family probably will boost the stock of John R. Steelman, who now bears the title of assistant to the president.

These two key advisers of Mr. Truman frequently have not seen eye-to-eye on important issues and have given the president conflicting advice and opinions.

Clifford, the president's personal counsel, almost always was on the opposite side of the fence from Steelman on labor matters. Recently he reportedly advised an immediate Taft-Hartley crack-down on John L. Lewis. Steelman opposed such a move and counseled Mr. Truman to hold back.

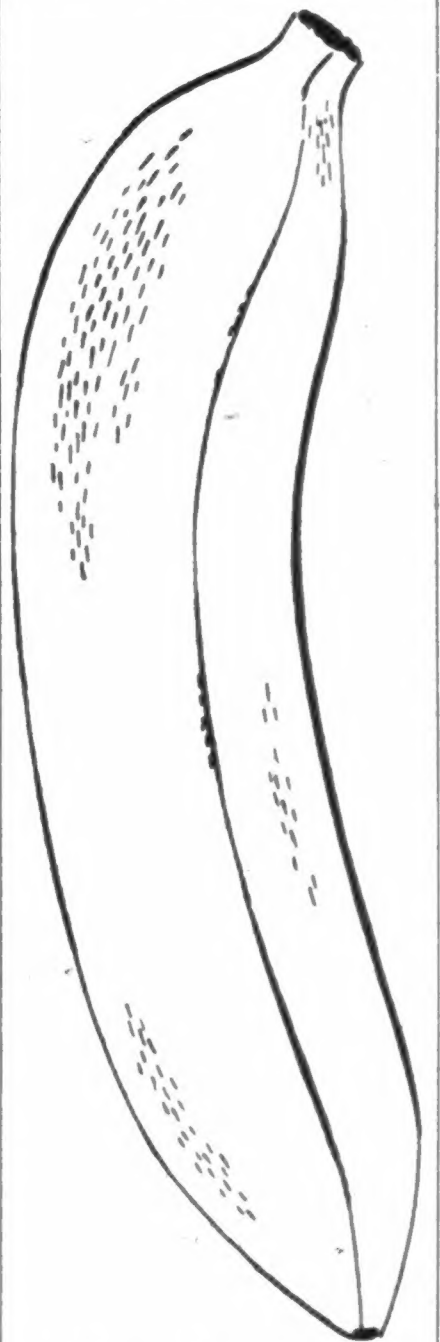

Steelman was criticized as being too friendly to the miners' leader but it is more likely that he was thinking about 1950 and the adverse political effects if Mr. Truman were forced to use T-H, which the administration and labor want repealed. As it turned out, Mr. Truman got by the ticklish situation by cracking down on the miners.

Truman Escapes
Tight Spot

● STEEL NEEDS DOWN—The United States steel industry is casting worried glances at its markets—and no wonder.

With output approaching normal once again, demand seems to be falling off. The buyers are growing cautious. They don't want to be left holding the bag in case of a slump—expected or otherwise.

The industry's magazine, Steel, surveyed the situation and reported that, in contrast to the rosy outlook for production, new buying is sluggish in most directions and "caution in ordering is increasingly in evidence."

Why do you judge a banana by the skin?

Because it tells you about the quality . . . condition . . . degree of ripeness. It tells you what you must know "about the goods in the package."

Why do you judge other products by their brand names (the name the manufacturer puts on a product so you can tell it from any other)?

Brand names, too, tell you exactly "what's in the package." Brand names enable you to judge the quality of the product, the reputation of the dealer, and the reliability of its manufacture. Any manufacturer knows that if you find his products good, you will buy them. If not, you won't—and the manufacturer will be forced out of business. Brand names are your protection—they tell you all the things you must know to shop wisely and well.

Brand names also enable you to choose the product that exactly suits your taste—avoid the ones that don't.

Whether it's an automobile, a towel, a can of peas, or a candy bar, choose the things you buy by their brand names. Look carefully for the brand names when you read the ads in this newspaper. That's the sure way to get exactly what you want.

Key To The Cover

Jimmy Hatlo, Carmel cartoonist, who pens "They'll Do It Everytime," does it every Christmas - decorates his home in the Yuletide spirit, that is. Steve Crouch said he had a hard time photographing Mr. Hatlo's home for this week's cover picture. He would just get set to snap the photo and another motorist would come along to look at Mr. Hatlo's decorations. Finally, Steve decided an automobile can be a blessing as well as a curse. He took the picture by the glare of someone's headlights.

MARY RODIN ENGAGED

The engagement of Miss Mary Rodin, of Carmel, to Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Kennedy was celebrated during a dinner Sunday, at the Carmel Highlands Inn which was attended by Mr. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kennedy, of Buffalo, N.Y. The Kennedys have been visiting their son, who recently completed the course at the Navy General Line School, Monterey.

Mr. Kennedy will return to Buffalo with his parents for a 30-day leave before leaving for his next duty station in Pensacola, Fla. Miss Rodin will meet him there and the couple will be married some time in February.

CHRISTMAS IN CORONADO

Dana Hood, Jr., left Carmel yesterday for Coronado, California, where he will spend Christmas with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Dana C. Hood, of Duluth.

AWVS MEETS JAN. 19

The next meeting of the AWVS will be a luncheon on Jan. 19, the place to be announced. Mrs. Helen Clark reports that the organization's shop in Seaside was swarming with parents who wished to acquire toys during the sale last week. The AWVS will distribute Christmas toys to shut-in children as its next project.

EXPECTED FROM NEW YORK

Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Woolsey, of New York City, will visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Woolsey, of Carmel, during the holidays. They expect to spend about a month in Carmel before returning to New York.

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Peggy Glaser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. H. Glaser, of Pebble Beach and Glencoe, Illinois, has left for Glencoe to spend the Christmas holidays with her family.

ENTERTAINS TENNIS CLUB

The Douglas School Tennis Club was entertained at a dance, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Frost in Monterey last Friday night.

MPC CHRISTMAS SOCIALS

Following the Winter Wonderland Ball at Monterey Peninsula College the evening of Dec. 16, the administrative staff of the college entertained the faculty and wives at a midnight egg-nog party and turkey dinner, at the home of the president, Calvin Flint. This gay Yuletide affair was the third of its kind for the three-year-old college, President and Mrs. Flint having opened their doors to the entire faculty the night of the students' Christmas ball last year and the year before as well.

The Flint home was festive with red berries and greens across the rafters, and many colored Christmas candles. Co-hosting with them were Dr. and Mrs. Del Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Marshall and Miss Betty Martin.

60 ATTEND AAUW CHRISTMAS PARTY

Sixty members of the American Association of University Women attended the organization's annual Christmas party last week at the Parish Hall, St. Marys-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove. The party was under the supervision of Mrs. Ted Durein, chairman of the book section, which staged the affair.

The group played charades and sang Christmas carols, accompanied by Mrs. Gerard Woefel. Decorations were arranged by Mrs. Richard Schuman, while refreshments were prepared under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Sor-tais. Each of the members were presented with hand-made corsages from Mrs. Douglas Martz and Mrs. F. E. Naftzger.

Soroptimists Noel Party

Members of the Monterey Peninsula Soroptimist Club, their husbands and special guests are still talking about the Christmas party they held last week at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. Seven entertainers were featured under the supervision of Mrs. Ellis Bovik, of Pebble Beach, who acted as mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Clayton Neill, president, presided over the festivities.

Among the entertainers were Melanie Monar, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Monar, of Salinas, who recently arrived here from Hawaii, and gave an authentic hula dance; Jan Bruno, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bruno, of Monterey, who played the drums, and Evelyn Concepcion, who sang several numbers.

Michael Taracouzio, Russian instructor at the Army Language School, played Russian classics on the same balalaika he carried through various European DP camps. (He is a Victor recording artist). Ilulki Saner, Turkish instructor at the school, who recently won an audition to sing with the Monterey County Symphony, rendered several songs, while Dorothy Breeding and Larry Manize, of the Arthur Murray Studios, demonstrated the rumba, samba and tango, and later led the entire group in folk dancing.

Accompanists for the entertainers were Gladys Johnston, of Carmel, and Mrs. William Oberholtzer. Decorations for the party carried out a Christmas theme and dinner was enjoyed at a large U-shaped table about the fireplace.

HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

Peter Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Doit Morse, and Joe Hudson, son of the William L. Hudsons, of Pebble Beach, will return home early next week from St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire, for the holidays.

to pray. How I one day refused to pray I do not recall. My people were not church people and did not mind. My father told me later that I should follow my own beliefs and hold to my own viewpoint as long as it was sincere. I have done so. I have resented the prayer taught to children in English speaking countries ever since I spoke English. The prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep. If I should die before I wake," etc. Why remind little children of death at so early an age. Please understand that I am not entering into a religious controversy. I am however interested in imbuing more poetry and more security to little children.

I would like to substitute instead, "God who loves the children all, look to me who is very small." That would be reassuring and not set up a speculation about death. I hope that someone will write a prayer for children one of these days that will set those young beings to thinking about more pleasant things.

I know of no story more beautiful than the story of Bethlehem. I have read it many times. A number of years ago, when I was in the motion picture industry, this came in very handy. I produced a picture called "Little Joel Ben Ezras' first Christmas." It was the story of a little boy who was an eyewitness to events during the birth of the Saviour. It was very acceptable because of its great simplicity.

A few years ago I read a book titled "Christmas of a Glove Trotter." I have had great sympathy for the too glad to give that child that comfort and spiritual comfort.

... And a Merry Christmas to all!

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY THINGS

Christmas means different things to different people. To many peninsula police officers, Christmas means extra traffic to direct. At the Monterey Union High School, thieves last week stole two roast turkeys.

Over in New Monterey, A. Brazil's Christmas tree went up in smoke, the first such casualty of the season.

J. H. Costa, of 570 Lighthouse Avenue, said he was the victim of two thieves with the Christmas spirit. They broke a slat on his fence, crawled in and stole two Christmas trees intended for sale to the public.

Out in Seaside, thieves short on funds stole several ideal gifts from the Higgins Radio Lab on Del Monte: a perculator, an electric mixer and portable radio.

The remainder of the public seemed to have the Christmas spirit. With stores open until 9 every night this week, eager shoppers are selecting gifts for Christmas, next Sunday...

Explains Parole System To Police

Police officers from all parts of Monterey County heard Charles W. Dullea, former San Francisco police chief, speak on the California Parole System last Tuesday.

Mr. Dullea is now a member of the California Adult Authority. He helps decide how long men stay in prison.

Contrary to general belief, Mr. Dullea produced figures to prove that there has NOT been an increase in crimes relating to sex, in California. He declared that since the passage of the Prison Reform Act, effective May 1, 1944, the Golden State has had one of the finest systems in the U.S.

Mr. Dullea said convicts now get eight weeks at a "Guidance Center" at San Quentin, comparable to "Boot Camp" in the armed forces. They wear brown clothing and do not mingle with San Quentin convicts. Vocational experts, police officers, doctors, dentists and parole officers all study the individual.

No small part of the program of rehabilitation is religion and chaplains are credited with much valuable work. Mr. Dullea, who confessed he once was a severe critic of parole boards, made a point to the officers. He said news headlines sometimes proclaimed that a former convict was involved in a crime of violence. Then people de-claim the lack of wisdom in letting that individual out of prison. But the parole officer said, "I can guess football scores the Monday morning after the game."

He wanted to know: How many successful men would get up before a service club and say, "Well, I'm a success now--but I was once in San Quentin."

Water Hearing: Out Like A Lamb

The Public Utilities hearing into the California Water and Telephone Company request for an increase in water rates ended Thursday in Monterey. The hearing came in like a lion and went out like a lamb.

The water company early in the year applied for a new rate schedule, which would result in an average overall rate increase of 15 percent. Actually, large users of water would be raised about nine percent, while those using small quantities would be raised as much as 20 percent.

In testimony taken before the Public Utilities Commission in October, and Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the water company and forces opposed to the increase submitted opinions and facts. Claude Rosenberg, attorney for the utility, introduced evidence indicating the company now received only 4.34 percent year income on its capital outlay. The company seeks to increase this figure to 5.13 percent under the new rate schedule.

Peter A. Menzel, manager of the company, testified to the correctness of the figures.

Between the time of the presentation of the company's position in October and the resumption of the hearing in December, Roy A. Wehe was retained to oppose the increase. Mr. Wehe, a former valuation engineer for the PUC, now is a private utilities consultant, with offices in San Mateo. He introduced witnesses who testified to the continued growth of the Monterey Peninsula.

Significantly, except for the first meeting in October, there were never more than six or eight people (apart from officials and those required to testify) in the large auditorium where the hearing was conducted - indicating that public feeling on the question was somewhat less heated than some reports stated. Nightly, Peninsula residents read that the important hearings were in progress; daily, their radios blared forth the same information. Still, there was no crowd to watch Mr. Wehe fight the rate request, the first increase requested in many years by the company.

Mr. Wehe, who accepted the assignment only on the condition that he would not have to "slant" the facts, gave some indication of his thoughts as the hearing drew to a close Thursday. He said he knew that the Public Utilities Commission would do the fair thing for the consumer and also for the company in keeping the rate raise at a minimum.

He added that he realized the California Water and Telephone Company had heavy expenses.

Despite reports that the public was up in arms against the rate increase, the obvious conclusion of Mr. Wehe was that some rate increase would be granted when the PUC makes public its findings, probably in February.

P.M.

This is one of a series of photographs of people you should know. All persons pictured are from the Monterey Peninsula and will be someone you meet almost every day, because they are in public life. For the answer to this week's "Who is it?" turn to page 20

PINNACLES NATIONAL MONUMENT

We'd heard a lot about the Pinnacles National Monument, but had never been there. So-o-o, one sunny Sunday morning we started out early to see for ourselves.

There were Jack and Mary Ellen Broadus, driving their new Merrill Oldsmobile, Steve Crouch, on the business end of his camera, Connie Depler, and me, too, on the business end of a sawed-off pencil.

First stop (Panel One) was just after we turned off Hiway 101 en route to San Juan Bautista. The Olds is shown in the district where El Bandido Juquin Murieta is said to have had a hideout.

We paused briefly for Mission identification in San Juan Bautista. That's Connie in Panel Two, looking down the colonnade of the wonderful old Mission facing the picturesque Plaza, which was used as a parade ground for Spanish soldiers, for bull and bear fights, and later as a stopping place for seven stage lines. It was first visited by the Spanish in 1792.

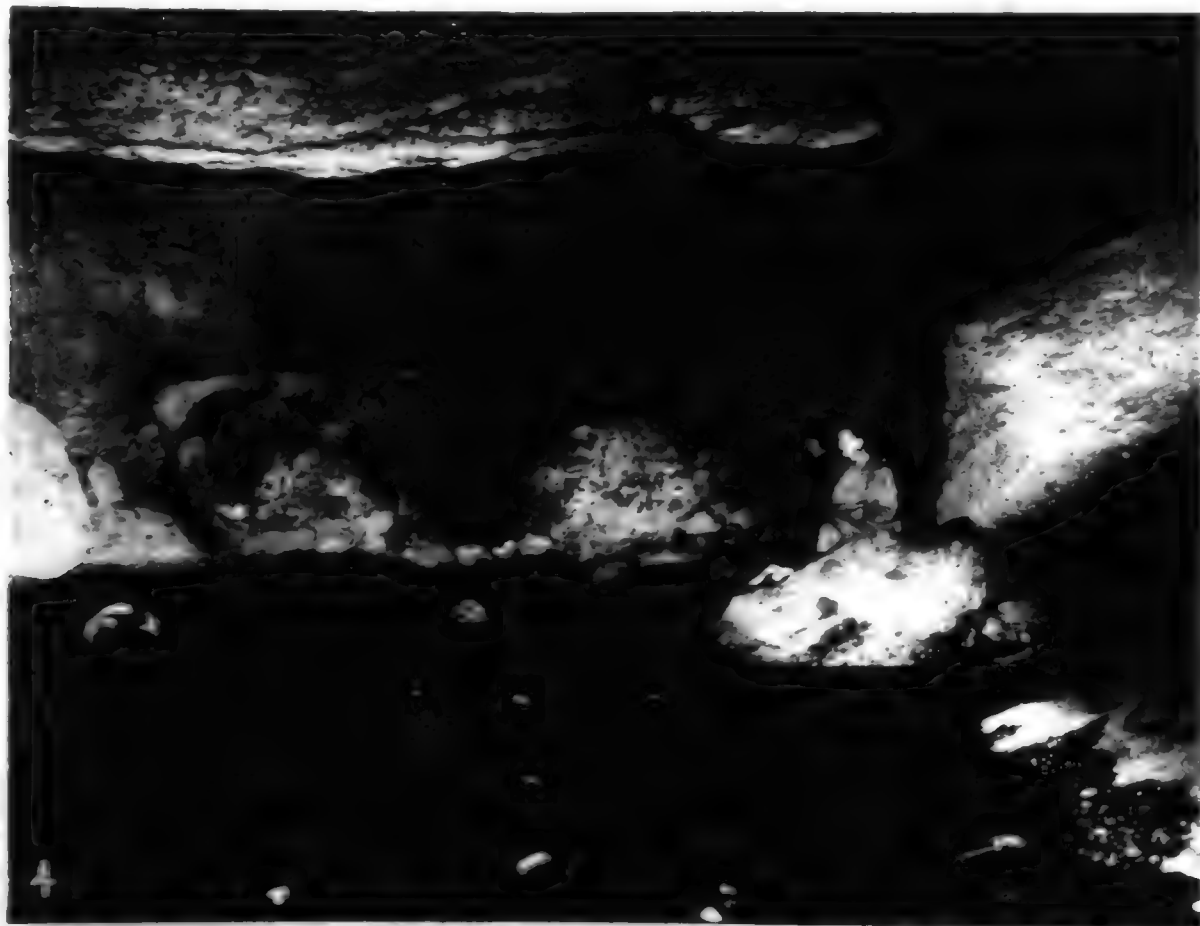

Also on the Plaza is the handsome adobe erected by General Jose Castro and later sold to Patrick Breen of the Donner party.

The old Plaza Hotel is a must-see museum piece, too - with its authentic early day saloon and its antique bedrooms designed for maximum discomfort.

After driving about 35 miles from San Juan Bautista, we reached the Pinnacles National Monument, where we got our first view of the area is named. (Panel Three)

This unique landmark is a natural rock formation, which carefully preserves the original shape of the lava flow.

To get to the top of the Pinnacles, we had to climb the ascent thru caves formed by the lava flow. It took place some 30 million years ago. In Panel Four, Connie and I

It must be a paradise for geologists. They say the lava flow is thousands of feet thick on some of the steep slopes, and that stone blocks 10 feet in diameter were shot forth by the escaping steam and hot gases, but that the terrific pressure broke most of them into fragments only a few inches thick!

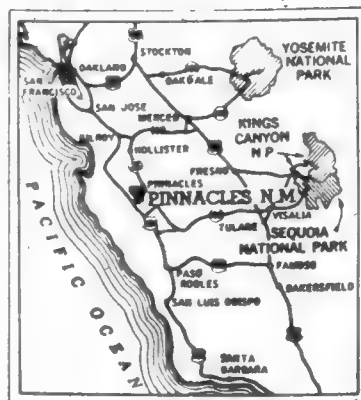

Going back down thru the caves is almost as strenuous as the trip up. There were places where we had to crawl thru small apertures on our knees. (Wise "stylish-stouts" will omit this). Then there was the time Crouch forgot to crouch and nearly knocked himself out on an overhanging rock.

In Panel Six, Connie and friend are looking at the "Bleeding Heart" pool, which is formed in a perfect heart shape in solid rock. We were told that at certain times light strikes thru an aperture in the cave's ceiling in such a way that the pool appears to be blood red. Forgot to verify this with the ranger, but it's a darn good story, anyway!

After a picnic lunch at a place provided near the mouth of the caves, we pulled our bruised and battered frames into the good old Olds and started home.

Panel Seven shows our helpful friend, Ranger A. N. Hoover, saying "solong" at the Ranger Station. He was a helluva nice guy.

As we settled back into the soothing comfort of our Merrill Oldsmobile I couldn't help thinking that the ol' rockin' chair Rocket ride was the best part of the trip!

friend are sitting in the "Big Room," gazing about rather calmly, considering the fact that the rock balanced over their heads is 86 feet high and weighs 60,000 tons! Apparently, the early day bandit, Tiburcio Vasquez, wasn't bothered either, because these caves were his favorite retreat when the sheriff started breathing down his neck.

We finally emerged at the top into brilliant sunshine, in a scene of wild beauty (Panel Five). The kaleidoscopic colorings of the rocks, the dramatic spires and crags, the evidences of volcanic violence everywhere, the brightly colored lichens, and the large soaring birds - all tend to create the impression that you've been transported suddenly into some weird prehistoric world.

Discerning Discs

By Henry Danks

Allegro's latest contribution to discriminating record collectors is a grouping of eight priceless songs... four by Haydn and four by Mozart. These little lieder have for the most part been represented in the usual import catalogs or on some off-label, but it is a joy to have them all together and so readily obtainable. Earl Rogers, tenor, has an unusually good feeling for this type of song, and his voice was recorded flawlessly. His accompanist, Emilia Mitrani, was heretofore unknown to the writer, but a very fine piano support was rendered throughout. Mr. Rogers' command of the German language is clear and exact... assuring true lovers of the lied one less headache than they often have to endure. It is of interest to note that one of Haydn's songs was written in English and that all of the lied requirements are still met amazingly well.

MODERN RUSSIAN

Dmitri Kabalevsky is very well known to gramophiles through only a few selections. His "Comedians" took the country by storm, shortly after Khatchaturian's "Gayne" had run the gamut and there are two excellent recordings of his "Piano Sonata No. 3." Now we have a chance to study his style in the more expansive form. His "Symphony No. 2 in C Minor" has just been released by Capitol Classics.

The tragic (and favored) key of Mozart and Beethoven finds quite another treatment in the hands of this contemporary. Rather, let it be said that here is a dynamism that rushes throughout, never once letting the listener down. Should the sound itself not find particular favor, the dash of the rhythms alone can hardly fail to bring an exhilarating satisfaction. Jacques Hachmilovich leads the Orchestra of the St. Cecilia of Rome through a well-paced, magnificently balanced performance.

CHRISTMAS, 1949

Morton Gould, better known as an arranger than as a composer, has taken six of our very familiar Christmas songs and scored them for orchestra in a fashion that will create the customary Yuletide spirit and, at the same time, hold the interest of the scholarly listener. These tunes all have such strong melody that Gould's contrapuntal handling makes the intellectual side of music quite simple. Every kind of rhythm is employed and twentieth century dissonance, though ever present, does not intrude. In addition, the "Suite of Christmas Carols" comes out as a well-connected unit. The reverse side of this Columbia LP disc is a "Serenade of Carols" for small orchestra. Fourteen carols representing equally as many moods are here woven into a composition in such a fashion as to bring perpetual surprise and delight. This disc is highly recommended for holiday fun... group singing and pleasant faces are certain results from each playing. Mr. Gould leads his own orchestra in what can be nothing short of the definitive performance.

For a merrier Christmas to all, keep your discs turning

ARMY LANGUAGE SCHOOL GRADUATES FIFTY NINE

Fifty-nine officers and enlisted men were graduated Friday by the Army Language School, Presidio of Monterey, California. The language department represented at the graduation included Arabic, Chinese, Danish, Greek, Norwegian, Rumanian and Swedish. Col. C. H. Barnwell, commandant, presented the diplomas in a series of informal exercises.

The majority of graduates departed immediately following the exercises for a furlough prior to reporting to their new stations. All academic sections of the Army Language School will be on an academic furlough from Dec. 17 to Jan. 2.

The California Centennial Commission has agreed to pay the Monterey Union High School District restoration monies in the amount of $2,029. Glen T. Most of the work will be on the football field itself, which had to be completely re-seeded, and which will be ready for play next fall. This payment is in addition to $19,680 already received from the commission for rental of bleachers and other school facilities during the pageant. The rental monies were applied toward construction of permanent bleachers, roads and walks.

Black broadtail trim on yellow.

By VERA WINSTON

THE FUR lined fabric coat has become an important performer in the winter fashion show, good on its own, even better when teamed up with a matching skirt to fuse into a wonderful suit. This one is of yellow woolen, a nice foil for the black American broadtail. The fur is used for the Peter Pan collar, which is finished with a fabric shoestring tie. Curved flap pockets are placed on fur shields, for a pretty touch. The coat is the popular five-eighths length and is generously flared in back and is easy to wear over a suit.

"BUSINESS WHIRL"

by AL RAILTON

HOOT MON!

I find that life can be beautiful - if one spends most of one's time around the Highlands Inn, especially during the holiday season. Manager Bob Blake has planned a splendid series of festivities, beginning Dec. 23 at 8:30 p.m. with a special program of Christmas songs and music, and ending with the New Year's Day schedule of breakfast from 10 to 12, a buffet dinner from 3 to 8 and a feature movie at 8:30 p.m. Also, there'll be a fabulous Christmas Dinner from 2 to 8 Christmas Day, and a feature movie at 8:30 in the evening, Dec. 27. New Year's eve will feature a dinner dance 'til 1 a.m., followed by a Yorkshire Breakfast at 2 a.m. You see what I mean?

VAGABONDIA...

How would you like to take a tour to the fascinating ports of call throughout the world? You can do it by stepping on the magic carpet at the Vagabonds' Corner in the Pine Inn Patio. Your engaging and well informed guides will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gordon. This unique shop displays art and jewelry treasures sent here from the far corners of the earth by Carmel's Vagabond No. One, Richard Norris, Jr. You'll see exotic Siamese jewelry, rich Chinese Jade, Turkish harem jewelry (that's for me!) and don't be surprised if you see a ruby and emerald back scratcher from Patagonia, unquestionably having been used to relieve the back of the Queen herself. This kaleidoscopic array of international objets d'art is such that connoisseur and dilettante alike can find much of interest and value.

Furthermore, Mrs. Gordon (Barbara, that is), designs "custom built" neckties and employs local artists to paint them. If you have a rich uncle whose yacht you rather fancy, Barbara will do a tie that will please him no end, because she will have found out from you what his "Achilles' heel" is, in order to design the tie accordingly. Then you can send it to Uncle Joe, wishing him a "merry Christmas, and another successful year." Barbara does blouses and scarves likewise - all beautiful and unique.

OH CHRISTMAS, OH!

Christmas comes but once a year - and I'm in favor of it - coming once a year! Gad, what a mad maelstrom! But, since I have my two front teeth, I'll tell you what I would like for Christmas. I want that musical horse at the Gourmet Shop. The one that plays "Pony Boy." I promise to give it a good home, and take it to bed with me every night!

MERRY CHRISTMAS, everybody!

Monterey Acquires Fire Equipment

It began to look last week as though Monterey would be spared a possible disaster. Long a step-child, the Monterey Fire Department recently has been getting more attention.

Late last week, Fire Chief Gregory Teaby announced that the Monterey City Council had informally agreed to the purchase of an aerial ladder. The need for such equipment was one of the points made by former Chief Harvey Morgan, who resigned from the Monterey Department amid much controversy several years ago.

Chief Teaby admitted that a fire in a tall building would be difficult to control without an aerial ladder. He expressed satisfaction on acquiring one.

Earlier this year, the City Council had accepted the fact that Monterey's city department was undermanned, had authorized additional men. Teaby stated that in February of 1949, in a strong letter to the city administration, he outlined the department's position, and told officials what must be done to improve it.

The city of Monterey is classed by fire underwriters in three sections today.

Old Monterey is class five; New Monterey class six; and Del Monte Grove, class seven.

Chief Teaby said that if the department continues to grow, if new equipment is secured, and new station houses built to the east and west of the old town, all areas can come under class four. That, says the chief, would mean savings in excess of $50,000 a year in insurance premiums for Monterey property owners.

CARMEL VALLEY

Doin's An' Stuff

Dear Boys and Girls:

The party given by the Business and Professional Association Friday night at the Carmel Valley Inn started the Christmas festivities with a bingo-bango. The dinner was wonderful and Santa Claus (Tommy Boyer) gave everyone at the party a present... Everyone in the valley was there, so a list of names would be impossible. Easier list to compile would be those who stood under the mistletoe repeatedly and - with consistent success too... Where has the doc gone?...

Saturday the community tree was decorated and carols sounded through the village in the late afternoon... a gift from Betty Ann and brother at the General Store, a procedure to be followed every evening until Christmas... thank you, General Store...

The county is all over both the valley and Salinas cut-off roads. We'll end up with so many good approaches to our lovely valley that we may well lament these peaceful days...

Mrs. Michael Gould is home from the hospital, we are glad to be able to report, but over half the valleyites have had or will have the current gem now circulating and no anti-histamine pills available either...

There's going to be a show of the primitive African carvings just received at the Carousel soon. These can be seen now in the gift shop and it's easy to believe after seeing them that they were indeed the mother, and father, too, of 'modern' art.

There should be definite news soon about the revised school plans, and 'tis rumored that it won't be long after the plans fit the pocketbook before a contractor is chosen and building can begin. The Tularcitos School Board meets the second Tuesday of every month and meetings are open to the general public...

Margaret Lang is leaving the valley for the winter anyway... No one ever really leaves the valley... ask Mrs. Norman Marshall...

All the organizations in the valley have contributed to the community Christmas party for all the valley kids. The Business and Professional Association, the Horsemen's Association, the Tularcitos Mothers Club, The Tularcitos Volunteer Fire Department and the Women's Auxiliary Fire Association, and individual valley business...

Folk dancing Friday nights at the Farm Center continues to enthrall the habitues. This Friday, there will be carols as well as the usual arduous exercises. Danny McDonald, president of the Folk Dancing Federation of California, will be at the Farm Center Dec. 30, and all valleyites are invited to come and be instructed in this newest of American crazes.

There was a tree decorating party at the Carousel last week and the most incredible things were done with fig newtons, nabisco, cigarettes, shredded wheat, lemons, cranberries and popcorn. The finished product is not only lovely to look at, but edible, too, and the lucky birds will have it after the season's festivities are over.

The Carmel Valley Airport is remaining a non-commercial enterprise which will operate as a private flying club with operational facilities for members and visiting guests. Rumors to the contrary about the commercialization of the airport are unfounded and untrue...

The new Carmel Valley Community Chapel will have a Christmas dedication service this Christmas morning at 11 o'clock.

Christmas services at the Catholic Church will be the 9 o'clock mass as usual...

Right Way to Punish Your Child

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

THOSE who have read this column regularly know that I urge parents as soon as the tot has learned the meaning of 'No' to abandon corporal punishment and to substitute for it chair-sitting punishment (which can be effective as early as two or three years of age). Accordingly, they are advised to assign the youngster to sit unamused in a certain place where he can be seen for a definite period of time ranging from fifteen minutes to an hour, depending on the child's age. This punishment can be effective up to the age of twelve or so. Also I have said that if the child while thus serving sentence asks you a question or wishes to engage you in conversation you should talk to him as at any other time, when doing so did not interfere with your work, so long as you did not discuss then his offense or the justice of his punishment.

Some while ago I recommended that for the child from about six to twelve whose parents must run all over the neighborhood to find him for dinner every evening, good procedure is to require him to sit at some distance from the table without food while the family go on with their dinner, he eating later. I said that the family at the table might practically ignore him in the meanwhile.

In a Chair

A mother who is a teacher writes: "I should like for you to explain why in one case you recommended punishing a child by having him sit in a chair yet conversing with him, but giving him no toys to play with. Then in your column one day you suggested helping the child remember to 'come home' when 'called for meal,' after he has repeatedly been late, by placing him in a chair while the rest of the family eat. You suggested he be ignored by the family then fed later, that the fact he is excluded from the family fellowship at mealtime will serve as a reminder. Now why ignore his efforts at speech one time and yet go ahead with the conversation in the former case?"

As I answered this mother, I probably did seem inconsistent. Certainly I failed to make my point clear. Of course, the two situations are very different. Yet I can see no good reason why the lad made to sit hungry at some distance from the table should not be answered so long as his punishment or the offense related thereto were not discussed then. However, this talk should not greatly interfere with the easy conversation around the table. The main essential is, I think, that the family around the table should not grow suddenly silent or feel sorry for the lad but should act as if nothing irregular had happened. Whether it is the older child or the tot four or five serving sentence in the chair he should not be treated with anger or contempt but humanely and courteously. Yet he needs to feel he is being deprived of a cherished privilege. In either case, if a parent begins to talk with the child about his offense or the justice of his punishment an argument is invited by the child and his hope of lessening or withdrawing the penalty is encouraged.

It's very important that all doubts in his mind about the certainty of his sentence be prevented. This is why I insist that when the child is sentenced the exact time as measured by the clock be named. No indeterminate sentence for him. Of course, we parents need to be so fair and just as to be sure we are right, even ready to beg of the child forgiveness once we discover we have erred.

ANSWER TO TEN WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Bill Woolsey, of the Carmel Post Office, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" He may have started a new Carmel tradition last weekend when he began wearing false beards, glassless spectacles, vaudeville hats and other outlandish clothing while serving parcel post customers. His clowning was a sure method of relieving Christmas Crush Tension, and it all started because of an incident several years ago. Born in New York City in 1914, Bill lived until 1940 in the big city and was employed by Geyer Publications when Uncle Sam called his National Guard unit into active service. While stationed at Fort Ord in 1943, he met and married the former Miss Marie Tanous, of Carmel. They now have three children: Patty Lou, 4½, Patrick, 1½, and Mary Jo, ½ months. Bill served overseas in the Aleutian campaigns, Hawaii, the Marshall Islands and at Leyte Gulf in the Philippines, where he received a wound in the face and was returned to the United States. Eighteen long months in the Valley Forge General Hospital led to his release in July of 1946 as a captain, following eight years of service. He returned to Carmel, settled down, and intends to stay here. Last week it was rather cold, as peninsulites recall, and Bill decided to wear a hat at his Post Office job. (His war wound left him with a sinus condition that is easily converted into bad colds). Two of the girls at the Post Office didn't like his hat, so they gave him a red beret. Frank Flynn, of Carmel, donated a derby hat and a false beard, and other persons followed suit. The costume may not conform to Post Office Regulations, but people like it, Bill says. Anyone who must stand in line can use a good laugh.

THE SPECTATOR
Carmel, California

Dear Editor:

Due to having bought my SPECTATOR every week at the Carmel Wine Shop, I suddenly find myself here in Europe, minus Wine Shop and SPECTATOR! Please enter my subscription for one year. Enclosed you will find a money order for five dollars.

It may interest you to know that I am currently with the War Criminal Prison No. 1 here in Landsberg and will be here about a year before returning to Carmel.

This huge, gray stone fortress prison, with four cell blocs, each four tiers high, was built to accommodate more than 1,000 prisoners. On the roster now are 745 convicted war criminals, 10 of them women. The list has been cut in the past three years by the execution of 278, 29 of them, by shooting, the rest by hanging.

There are now 29 red-jacketed; the other prisoners wear all-black uniforms - members of death row, some of whom have lived there for three years under the threat of the gallows, their appeals still undecided. Lifers number 252. The remaining 464 have more than 6,000 years to serve.

A two-hour tour of the prison takes one through cell blocs, death row, solitary confinement bloc, hospital, medical lab, band room (part of which was the cell of Landsberg's most famous tenant - Adolf Hitler), kitchen, bakery, mess hall and scores of shops.

Entertainment and privileges are allowed the inmates and American officials here claim the war crimes jail is the equal of any other in Germany and compares favorably with many jails in the U.S.

Very truly yours,

John D. Brockdorff

Thanks, Mr. Brockdorff, for the interesting letter. The SPECTATOR gets around. Two subscriptions also have been ordered from Japan this week.

THIS HOUSE convinced me that "modern" design can be charming as well as livable. The location is such that you have a lovely view of the ocean. The exterior and interior are both redwood. Interior treated to retain its original shade. It is exceptional and you should inspect it, if you are in the market, for a well built house with a utilitarian floor plan. The price is $15,500 and worth every penny of it.

CORDIAL
GREETINGS

In genuine appreciation of your cooperation during the year just closing and in the strong belief that we shall be of greater service to you in the next twelve months, we send you a cordial wish for a Christmas of good cheer and a happier, brighter New Year.

I would like to take this occasion to wish all of my customers and friends the very best of Best Wishes from -

TURNER'S MEAT MARKET
MANSFIELD TURNER

All during the year we see many familiar faces coming into the Beverage Shop. We wish to say to each of you individually a Merry Christmas - and thank you!
